from the editor

Welcome to iBelieve. Welcome to a brand new type of magazine. We believe it is time for a real faith magazine for real people of faith in the UK. We believe faith is too good just for Sundays. Faith is a seven-day event – and our aim is to capture it in one great new Christian lifestyle magazine.

In short, we believe iBelieve is what you believe.

Our three aims are simple. Fun. Family. Faith.

So we will be unashamedly Christian but never churchy. Like you, we love Sundays. But like you, we also love holidays, work days, birthdays, shopping days and lazing-about-at-home days.

'We believe it is time for a real faith magazine for real people of faith in the UK. We believe faith is good'

We also know there are sad days, lonely days and downright dark days.

That's why we'll report on the stories that separate the spiritual from the secular. It could be the testimony of a Hollywood superstar, a Premiership footballer, or someone who lives on your street.

What makes their story stand out from those in other magazines is one name – Jesus.

We believe he is present in every day of our lives – seven days a week.

So we'll write about the commonplace as much as chapter and verse. We'll focus on holidays and healing. We'll feature faith and fashion.

We'll be positive in everything we do and all we write about. Even the difficult issues. Because we know our readers are people who understand that the Bible is for believing, not for bashing.

Above all, we have created this magazine for the same reason you are reading it. iBelieve.
